

Dear Midwives,

Birth and Beyond is looking for a Midwife to join our team beginning summer 2017 for at least a year. A flexible start date and possibility of extension will be considered for the right candidate.

Birth and Beyond is a team of academic and clinical faculty midwives, in a group practice located on UBC campus. Two Full-time and 2 part-time midwives, co-ordinate care for a caseload of families from diverse cultural and life backgrounds. We have a unique clientele who desire active involvement in decision-making for their care, including exploration of the best available evidence for care options. Many are UBC employees and students, including new immigrants to Canada who have come to BC to study or conduct research. We also provide care for families in the Richmond area, and offer access to transient or special needs families.

As a faculty practice we are especially committed to mentoring students from all health professions. The successful candidate will share our interests in education and research, and will happily support other team members in their own academic responsibilities and pursuits. We have a high physiologic birth rate and home birth rate, and we are seeking a partner who has similar clinical competencies and values, in order to provide seamless team-based care. Experience with full-scope clinical practice, teaching, research, and/or continuing clinical competency (NRP, MESP, workshops) and complementary care certifications will be viewed favourably.

We enjoy working with each other and we are all extremely supportive of professional development, family time, and self-care. We work together to achieve flexible schedules that allow for work/life balance and job satisfaction.

Please contact Quinn and Michelle to apply or if you have any questions.
