Midwives

Is it time for a new journey? A change of scenery? Change in lifestyle? From picture-perfect natural backdrops, to adventure opportunities right on the doorstep, here in New Zealand, that dream work-life balance is our reality, and right now, you have the chance to make it yours.

At Southern DHB, we're looking for motivated, passionate midwives who are ready to make an exciting leap.

You'll be pleased to find we do things a little differently down here. As you well know, midwifery is a hugely essential role in women's healthcare, and the NZ system is built with that in mind. That's why you'll have the freedom and autonomy to work in a setting that suits your preferred style of care – either at a primary maternity unit, or a secondary or tertiary unit within a hospital, where the levels of care required are more complex and continuous. Whatever setting you choose, you'll provide valuable prenatal, delivery and postnatal care - helping women at each stage of their journey.

Plus, with roles available across both Dunedin and Invercargill, we're offering the unique opportunity to experience working in multiple regions – the chance to find your perfect fit.

We're looking for enthusiastic midwives who love what they do and are always seeking new opportunities to learn or impart their knowledge to help others thrive. You'll be a conscientious carer ready for your next opportunity to shine – perhaps somewhere that's a better match for the slice of life you're after. You might choose to embrace the little big city of Dunedin, where you're never far from the great outdoors, but can still enjoy a bit of the bustle, and a vibrant cultural scene. Or take the family further south to Invercargill, where you'll enjoy a little more peace and quiet, and have hundreds of KMs of natural beauty right there in your backyard. Wherever you're headed, we'll make your move a great one, as you join a fun, close-knit work community with no shortage of friendly faces.

As a midwife, you're no stranger to the big moments; the life-changers and journey beginnings. So now, take the opportunity to begin your own, and make the best move of your life. Get in touch – we can't wait for you to join us.
