Other Information

Hi all - yes - it's another locum request! I've found myself injured on the job and need time to heal.

Ideally the locum would work January - March but these dates are somewhat negotiable. You would be joining a supportive team of 3, working in a shared care model. We have a flexible call/clinic schedule that supports our work life balance.

Nanaimo Regional General Hospital, a 224 acute-bed regional referral hospital, enjoys a new-ish perinatal unit with single room maternity care and Level II Special Care Nursing offering 1,200 deliveries per year with RMs currently doing 30% of these births.

Nanaimo is a growing and vibrant community that enjoys access to abundant outdoor activities, with relative proximity to the urban rush of Victoria, the soothing beaches in Tofino, and an active ski hill in Courtenay.

If this sparks an interest or you need more information please contact me.

Warm regards,

Yvanne Faught
